35 young members

The Slovenian CIGRE NGN was founded in 2014. The aim is to provide young members the ability to network with experts and possible employers, gain new experience and practical knowledge. NGN is primarily established for connecting, learning and networking.

The annual plan was created with the idea to organize more technical workshops and visits to attract young members. Giving the possibility to learn about the various fields of electrical engineering from the first hand. Members can attend in both, national and international conferences. With a wish to present more articles on the conferences, we encourage members to do researches and studies. The chairman is master student Ana Lovrenčič, who promotes and organizes activities of NGN Slovenia.

YOUNG CIGRE MEMBERS COMPETITION FOR THE BEST 2019 PAPER

Competition is organized as part of biennial power conference of Slovenian CIGRE National Committee. By the rule, competition is open for under graduated students, master theses students and doctoral students. For every competition different evaluation jury is selected, mostly composed by professors from Universities of Ljubljana and Maribor.

ANNUAL BEDJANIC AWARD

Every year in mid of December NC CIGRE in cooperation with Slovenian Universities organizes respectable Bedjanič award for the best doctoral and master theses in the area of Electric Power systems and automation. This Award was established in honour of the professor VRATISLAV BEDJANIČ – founder of the Electrical manufacturing industry in Slovenia, in early 50's of the last century.

Maja Mikec, former chairman of NGN Slovenia

Being part of CIGRE NGN gave me an opportunity to get a lot of experience in organizing meetings, working with students, helping at conferences. I met a lot of people from different fields. Being a Slovenian NGN representative for 2 years was an unique opportunity to help building CIGRE NGN in Slovenia. It is still growing and developing, and I believe it is on a right path.
